Montgomery Visitors Spend Weekend Here

Mrs. K. L. Williams of 416 E. Chase St. had as guests last weekend Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gilliam and little daughter, Wilhelmina; Mrs. Marie Freeman and little sons, Mark Caesar and Michael Earl, of Montgomery, Ala. Mrs. Gilliam, a graduate of Alabama State Teachers College and principal of a junior high school in Elmore County, is Mrs. Williams' sister, and Mrs. Freeman, a student at Alabama State College, is her sister-in-law, wife of her brother, Jesse J. Freeman.

Mrs. M. J. Smith of 821 E. Gonzalez St. was joint hostess with Mrs. Williams in entertaining this fine young group. They are very grateful to the many friends who helped to make their stay most pleasant. There wasn't a dull moment from the time of their arrival at 11 o'clock Friday night until their departure Sunday at 4:30 p.m. They extend special thanks to the Tolberts and Gaiters for that delightful fish fry Saturday night on their beautiful lawn at Sea Marge Lane. Breakfast at Rosemond Johnson Beach Saturday morning, dinner, sight-seeing and numerous other courtesies made their stay an unforgettable one.

Gospel Groups Embark on Tour

HOLLYWOOD—The country's foremost Gospel singing groups, the Pilgrim Travelers, Soul Stirrers and Blind Boys of Mississippi, embarked on a nation-wide tour August 21, which will embrace 101 cities throughout the country.

Each group has established itself in the religious field today. Collectively, they are expected to sing to over 50,000 people upon the completion of the tour Dec. 1st.

The Pilgrim Travelers catapulted into national prominence with their Specialty recording of "Jesus Met the Woman at the Well," and "Mother Bowled." The Soul Stirrers hit a new high in popularity when Specialty Records released their recording of "Peace in the Valley," backed by "Jesus Gave Me Water." The Blind Boys of Mississippi, also known as the Jackson Harmonizers, were the first religious group to make the Billboard Popularity Chart of the most played records, with their Peacock recording of "Our Father."

The groups are under exclusive management contract to Herald Attractions, Inc., of Hollywood, whose roster also includes Brother Joe May, the Sally Martin Singers, the Spirit of Memphis, the Swan Silver-tone Singers, the Detroiters, Sister Wynona Carr, Prof. J. Earle Hines, and the Original Gospel Harmonettes.

NOTE: The Pilgrim Travelers will appear at J. Lee Pickett School Thursday night, Sept. 11.

Guests sat at the long rustic tables and chatted or mingled till a late hour. A very tempting seafood supper was served.

Alkin Hepburn Hailed As Promising Quarterback

By CHARLES J. SMITH, III
TALLAHASSEE—Alkin Hepburn, the "Mr. Cool" of Miami who is being hailed by followers of the Florida A and M College Rattlers on the eve of the '52 football season as the nation's most promising quarterback, led the "contingent" of 65 players who reported here last week to seek berths on the Orange and Green gridiron machine.

The Rattlers open the season against Texas College on September 20 in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl.

After two days of physical examinations the (18-19), the coaching staff initiated conditioning drills on the 20th which included the following "specialties"—punting, kicking, and passing, with all the players working out in shorts.

The heavy work began on the 25th as Head Coach "Jake" Gaither and the staff began stressing fundamentals in an effort to evaluate the men, especially the newcomers. They were shifted and reshuffled.

One of the major problems facing the staff is the task of finding a replacement at the left half post for the graduated Jasper Saunders and his understudy, Carl Jefferson, who is now serving in the Armed Forces. Coach Gaither is giving Robert Mungen, the versatile player from Jacksonville, a try. A senior, he has seen service as a regular end in '50 and last year saw action as a quarterback as well as being a stalwart on defense. "It all depends on how the other candidates for the post come through whether or not we'll use Mungen at the halfback spot or shift him back to end or keep him at quarter," Coach Gaither said.

Another problem is filling the right half spot left by the departure of All-American Oscar Norman. As things now stand John "Bo" Arnold, the Clairton, Pa., junior seems to have the inside track. He was limited mostly to defensive service during his freshman and sophomore years.

However, Coach Gaither said he plans to give both Willard Cooper, the Fort Lauderdale senior, who was a fullback and linebacker in '50, and Roman Gavin, the sophomore fullback, a chance for the job. As a high school player, Gavin was rated a terror as he romped for Roosevelt Tigers in Lake Wales.

Special Season For State's Robin Hoods; Other Hunting Info

TALLAHASSEE—The state's bow and arrow hunters were granted a special hunting season in the Ocala National Forest 25 days prior to the opening of the regular shooting season by a recent Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission action.

The special archery season will start October 17 and continue through October 26. Legal game for the Robin Hoods will be deer, bear, and panther, with no dogs or guns allowed during the hunting.

The archers will have to purchase a special archery hunting permit, in addition to their regular license, and it is expected that the incoming revenue will more than account for the money spent for supervision of the controlled hunts.

The Commission action follows the pattern set in many other states throughout the country which have similar hunts for archers prior to the regular season.

The archers will have to follow the same regulations as the nimrod hunters with relation to bag limits and other restrictions, such as 5-inch antler buck deer. Many sportsmen's groups throughout the state supported the move to give the bow and arrow men a special season.

Opened is an area of 2,000 acres near Blountstown which was closed to protect the Ivory-Billed woodpecker. The Audubon Society, upon whose request the refuge was established, said that there have been no reports of ivory-billed woodpeckers since shortly after the area was closed, and that there was no necessity for keeping it closed from the standpoint of protecting the ivory-bill.

Train Dogs 'Til Nov. 20

Play Time for Central Agents

Eight persons who are a part of the personnel of the Pensacola branch of the Central Life Insurance Company are vacationing at various points throughout the country. The company initiated the policy of allowing their agents two weeks vacation with pay back in 1945. Although agency compensation is basically on a percentage basis the Central Life allows them a flat sum for vacation as a token of their appreciation for the splendid job they are doing. There are however, specific requirements to qualify and those qualifying are granted the privilege.

Those currently on vacation are Assistant Managers Georgia M. Powers, and Palestine McCloud and agents Willie N. Grandberry, Petronella Lusane, Lillian O. Davis Ruby L. Gant and Cozetta McCloud.

Grandberry and powers will return August 23, the remaining group will be out until August 30. Agents Mary Bell McCloud and Verlie O. Martin are scheduled to have their vacations September 15 through the 26 inclusive.

Beginning with September 1, the branch office will inaugurate a production campaign in an effort to have all persons in the area including Panama City, Port St. Joe and DeFuniak Springs adequately covered.

New York University Bans Race Questions

NEW YORK—Questions of race and religion will be eliminated from all registration forms at New York University beginning with the new school term next month.

Assurance that such designations are to be dropped were given recently by Dr. Henry T. Heald, chancellor of the university, to Herbert L. Wright, youth secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. In a conference with Mr. Wright, Dr. Heald said that the new registration forms will omit the questions entirely. Meanwhile, students will not be required to state their race or religion on the current forms.

The elimination of these questions culminates a two-year campaign by the NAACP chapter at NYU, now headed by Alexander Foster, a third-year student preparing to enter the university law school.

Chancellor Heald also informed Mr. Wright that the guard staff and other service personnel at the university would be integrated. As a result of the killing of Enus L. Christiani, a student, by a university guard, the chancellor agreed to the proposal to give all guards at the university special training in human relations at the New York City Police Training Institute.

Statement by President of the United States

Labor Day is a day dedicated to the working men and women of America.

It has been 70 years since Peter J. McGuire first proposed to the New York Trades and Labor Assembly that there should be an annual holiday, a Labor Day, to honor "the industrial spirit, the great, vital force of every nation."

This Nation has come far in those years. And our working men and women have gained immeasurably in security and dignity and freedom, as citizens of the Republic and as partners in the Nation's economic progress.

Nearly 16 million American workers are now organized in unions of their own choosing, to help themselves, their communities and their country. Their record is a tribute to the American system of free collective bargaining, which responsible trade unionism has developed to replace the old law of the jungle in our industrial relations.

In this and many other ways, the trade unions of America have made a great and growing contribution to our national life. They are playing a vital, constructive and responsible part in the growth of the American economy and in our great national effort to win peace and security for ourselves and all free peoples.

The Government has helped with laws safeguarding labor's right to organize and bargain collectively; and with other laws banning sweatshop wages and child labor, and preventing exploitation of the weak. The Government has helped with many measures to enhance the health and welfare and security of workers and all other citizens.

Today, we celebrate these advances for the working people of America. But it is not enough to celebrate the progress we have made. This is a day to look ahead, to plan where we are going, to consider the things we can accomplish in the future.

Many of our citizens—many of our working men and women—need more adequate protection against the great financial hazards of sickness, disability, unemployment, and old age. We need more and better housing for our growing population. We must build up our schools in many areas. We must end the discrimination which has cast shadows on some parts of our great record of freedom.

We must safeguard our national prosperity to keep our economy growing. We must safeguard our heritage of freedom against the attacks of totalitarian ideologies, both left and right. We must safeguard our national security, by building strong defenses at home and by working with other nations to keep peace in the world.

Let all of us—workers, farmers, businessmen, all citizens—dedicate ourselves this Labor Day to these goals of peaceful progress for ourselves and for our country in the years ahead.

The Man With the Hoe

Millet's somber "The Man With the Hoe" is one of the most famous paintings in the world. It was the inspiration for Edwin Markham's equally famous poem of the same name, of which one verse reads:

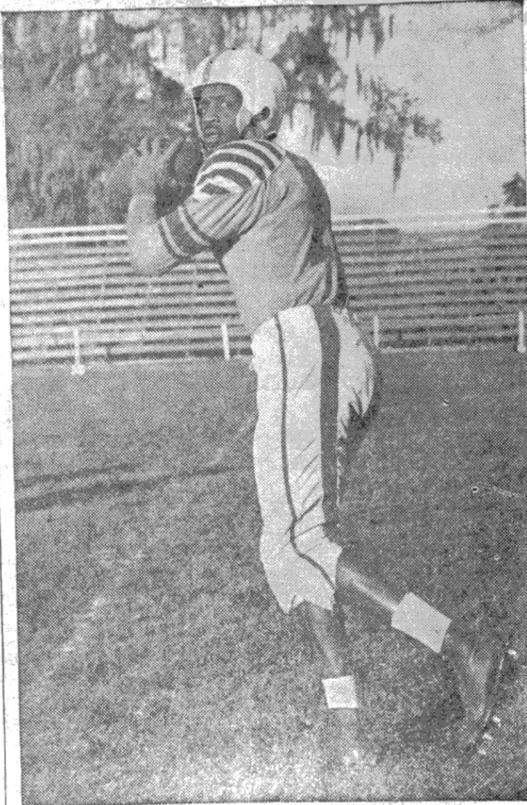

"Bowed by the weight of centuries he leans Upon his hoe and gazes on the ground, The emptiness of ages in his face, And on his back the burden of the world."

There was much more to this than a poet's imagination. Recorded agricultural history goes back some 5,000 years—and in all that vast span of time the hoe has been the symbol of the farmer's physical burdens.

It has been well said that more boys have decided to leave the farm while hoeing than while doing any other chore. The beating the old-fashioned hoe gives the man who wields it has plagued food producers through the ages. And only in the last century of unparalleled invention and progress have farmers been able to cultivate their crops without the hoe.

A little less than a hundred years ago a machine called the straddle-row walking cultivator was devised. This marked, to all practical purposes, the modest beginning of what we now know as mechanized farming. Since then the progress in this vast field has been only one step short of incredible—farmers of two or three generations back would find it totally unbelievable. Tractors, soil pulverizers, rotary hoes, planters, seeders—all manner of power-driven machines and attachments have reduced physical labor to a minimum, and at the same time enormously increased each farmer's productivity.

The man with the hoe, as Millet painted him and Markham wrote of him, belongs to the past. The machine is the symbol of agriculture's present.

ALKIN "MR. COOL" HEPBURN is probably in a class to himself on the eve of the 1952 football season. The Miami senior threw 11 touchdown passes for the Florida A and M College Rattlers in '51—five against North Carolina College in the Orange Blossom classic. He has an excellent target in "Train" Irvin who took five of his TD heaves last year.—(Jones Photo).

Game Commission Tells Bag Limits For Coming Season

TALLAHASSEE — The turkey hen shooting question was decided for this season recently when the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission agreed to permit hunting of both hens and gobblers in the First, Fourth and Fifth Conservation Districts, while gobblers only will be killed in the Second and Third Districts, according to Chairman Cecil M. Webb.

The controversial issue was settled during a meeting called for the purpose of setting the hunting regulations for this year. Hunters will get the same number of days afield this year with November 20 scheduled as the opening day for deer, turkey, quail and squirrel shooting. The deer season will end January 6, while seasons on other domestic game will stop on February 1.

Hunting will be permitted through November 30 for all districts, with Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays thereafter closed, except in the Third District which embraces all Northwest Florida counties west of the Aucilla River, where every day shooting is permitted.

Bag limits include one buck with 5-inch antlers a day, with two per season, and two turkeys per day with three per season. Both deer and turkey must be tagged immediately after being killed.

Quail hunters will be allowed 10 per day, while sportsmen may take 10 cat squirrels and one fox squirrel each day. The season on turkey, quail and squirrel ends February 1.

The Commission voted to recommend to Federal authorities that the waterfowl (ducks, geese, and coots) season in Florida be set as late as possible within the time limit set by Federal regulation. The dates for waterfowl hunting will be announced later.

Earlier migratory regulations which were approved by Federal authorities and adopted by the Game Commission yesterday included the shooting of marsh hens from September 15 to November 13 with a bag limit of 15 daily and a split dove season, from October 1 to October 15, and from December 15 to 20, with a daily bag of eight.

Director Ben L. McLaughlin and Assistant Director O. Earle Frye were instructed to work out regulations for the special hunts in 14 Wildlife Management Areas.

Good Morning BEGINS WITH BREAKFAST

Eat at least this much breakfast. by Betty Baker

Breakfast can make the difference between a good or bad morning. For a good morning, breakfast is a must. Not coffee alone. Nor surprisingly enough, a whopping big breakfast—you know the kind, with potatoes on the side. Coffee by itself gives you practically no food value; in contrast, those oversized morning meals are very likely to put you to sleep all over again, make you lopy and listless.

But he that hateth his brother is in darkness and walketh in darkness and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.—(1 John, 2:11.)

When we hold others in hatred, in scorn or contempt, we are not hurting them nearly as much as we hurt ourselves, for these are cancerous growths, destructive. If we seek the good in our neighbors and nourish it with our own, there is growth that is soul-satisfying and healthy, and its benevolence spreads, strengthening all.... Let us hate only evil, and ever strive against it.

Treat Yourself As Well As You Do Your House Guests, Advises Famous Designer

Young couples are advised to use their best silverware and dinnerware at all times. Attractive table setting above features 1847 Rogers Bros. "Daffodil" silverware pattern and the new "Apple Blossom" dinnerware pattern.

Young couples should "treat themselves" as well as they do special guests in their home. That's the advice of Freda Diamond, well-known designer, whose newest dinnerware pattern, "Apple Blossom", now is being introduced exclusively by 1847 Rogers Bros. dealers.

Other Suggestions Miss Diamond has several other suggestions for gracious living. They are: 1) In selecting silver and china, insist upon two fundamentals: good design and simplicity.

2) Because storage space in today's homes is at a premium, young couples should select sets of silver and china that provide multipurpose. This, she says, will eliminate the purchase of extraneous pieces that must be stored.
